

1.

1. Write a PL/SQL block to raise dup_row exception in the student if any duplicate row is inserted in the student table. (roll number is primary key in the student table).
2. Write a PL/Sql block to check dept wise if any dept minimum salary of employee is less than 1000 and max salary of the employee more than 4000. It will raise min_sal and max_sal exception.
3. Write a PL/SQL block to raise 'low_employee' exception if any dept no of employee is less than
4. Write a PL/SQL block to raise 'no_commission_exp' if any employee is not getting any commission in dept 30.
5. Create an table Project(Pno,pname,plocation,empno). More than one employee is working in the project. In project table Pno is the primary key and empno is the foreign key. If any employee is working more than 4 projects then it raises an exception. Create a sequence for pno.
6. Write a PL/SQL to raise the exception after printing 2nd employee name and job in deptno 20.
7. Write a PL/SQL block display no of years worked till today and raise an exception if any employee worked less than 15 years till today.
8. Write a PL/SQL block to display all deptno, deptname and employee name. If any dept employee is not assigned then it will raise an exception.